Energy Efficient Home Building Methods to be Showcased at the Fall Remodeling & Design Expo

Novi, Mich.—Home building and remodeling designs may change with time, but saving money on home energy costs is one trend that's always in style. Dedicated to highlighting energy efficient and cost saving building methods and products will be the "Green Lifestyles Area" featured at the Fall Remodeling & Design Expo, October 6-9 at the Suburban Collection Showplace (formerly the Rock Financial Showplace) in Novi.

Displays will include a full size model of Thermal Wall Construction's insulated concrete forms. These steel reinforced concrete wall forms provide extra strength, fire-resistance, and higher value thermal and sound insulation. Michigan Custom Builders will also display their super-insulated wood wall sections for traditional stick built homes. These energy efficient insulated wall panels provide extra strength, better air quality and increase insulation value for walls and roof.

Show attendees can learn about energy efficient green products such as attractive inside storm windows, low-draft windows, energy-saving storm panels, gutters guards, roofing, insulation, siding, tile, home energy audits and more!

An energy-efficient home reduces your carbon footprint and saves money spent on utility bills; so more homeowners are investing in green options. Energy-efficient appliances, lighting, AC systems, and water heaters are popular eco-friendly options, but on the rise are green alternatives for flooring, cabinets and countertops.

All of the latest home design trends can be found at the Fall Remodeling & Design Expo, October 6-9, 2011, at the Suburban Collection Showplace (formerly the Rock Financial Showplace) in Novi, on Grand River, south of I-96 between Novi Road and Beck Road. Browse exhibits in kitchen and bath interiors, windows and doors, flooring products, furniture, cabinetry and much more!
